MORNING DIPS INTO FRIGID WATER

And Few Clothes In Cold Weather Brings G. W. Beard to 85 Mile Post Well And Nearty

PIONEER TEMPERANCE WORKER

Hardinsburg, Ky., (Special)—Mr. G. W. Beard celebrated his eighty-fifth birthday yesterday. He is the oldest young man and one of the most active men in town, always ready to engage in a good work and to help with work and money any good cause.

He came to Hardinsburg seventy-two years ago, married nearly sixty-one years ago and since he was fifteen, he has been a member of the church, ever identified with church and temperance work. In fact, he is one of the pioneer temperance workers in the county. The first vote on temperance in Breckenridge, was done at his expense except in one district. Largely through his effort has he lived to see the county local option from center and circumference.

Mr. Beard holds to the old order of things in many respects, and thinks health is promoted by wearing only a reasonable amount of clothing, bathing in cold water, and being temperate in eating as well as drinking.

On the coldest mornings he delights to wash his face and head in the open with the water freezing to his locks as he returns to the house.

Until thirty-seven, he steadily refused to wear an overcoat; since then he has had four, two of which he lost, one he wore out riding upon it, while Sheriff, and the other he has yet but has not had it on this winter, and will not unless he goes away somewhere.

Years ago he purchased a pair of gloves for a ride to Letchfield one very cold day. Till this day he thinks his hands would have frozen had he not taken the gloves off and gone bare handed.

The Primary Department of the Irvington Public School rendered quiet an interesting Christmas Program Friday afternoon, Dec. 23 from two to three o'clock.

The children all acquitted themselves in a pleasing manner.

"Going for the Christmas Trees" by the first and second grades, was quite an effective story and one in which the little tots took great delight.

"The Garden of Santa Claus" by the first, second and third grades, in which Master Thomas Alexander played the part of Santa Claus, was the most pleasing number on this program. As a miniature Santa Claus, Thomas would be hard to excel. The story of the Other Wise Man, as told by Mrs. Piggett touched the hearts of the audience both young and old.

A donation of money, fruits, toys, clothing and provisions was made to the Kentucky Children Home Society.

David Herndon, of Louisville, and brother, Sam Herndon, of Wichita, Kansas, are spending the week with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Herndon.

John Kasey Dies at Rosetta.

John Kasey, one of the best men in Breckenridge County, died at his home in Rosetta last Wednesday of acute indigestion. He was 77 years old. Mr. Kasey was a genial, kind, big hearted man and a good citizen. For more than a quarter of a century the News has come in contact with this man on the highways, at his home, at sales, at the court house, and many public gatherings and he was just the same genial, smiling John Kasey, never a ripple or knock came from him. We are sorry indeed to hear of his death.

Whitworth and Compton, who look after the interest of the Company. This firm should feel highly complimented in securing the services of Russell Compton, who will take pleasure in filling any orders given them in their line.

The Art of Carpentry.
How many common figurative expressions in our language are borrowed from the art of carpentry may be seen from the following sentence: "The lawyer who filed the bill, shaved the note, cut an acquaintance, split a hair, made an entry, got up a case, framed an indictment, impeached a jury, put them into a box, nailed a witness, hammered a judge and bored a whole court, all in one day, has since laid down law and turned carpenter."

CHRISTMAS.

Entertainment A Dandy—Mr. Bob Pierce An Ideal Santa Claus to Both Young And Old.

If Mr. Bob Pierce had been a real Santa Claus, he could not have made more happiness for the large crowd present at Oelz's Hall Monday night. The members of the Methodist Sunday School and Church enjoyed their annual Christmas gathering more than any previous affair of the kind in years.

The program was very entertaining and the chief feature was the attraction of the little kindergarten class of Miss Elizabeth May, who had the boys and girls to give several numbers of music. The singing contests by the different classes were great fun, and all the children caught baskets filled with candy fishes and fine fruits.

The men and women fished together, the men got a little bucket, each containing a lemon, and the women got worse than that—nothing! All the officers were given nice gifts, even Aunt Martha and Uncle Bartley were beautifully remembered.

Mr. Pierce went to a bit of expense and his efforts and interest in the entertainment was greatly appreciated. An urgent invitation was given to all to attend Sunday School next Sunday.

Henderson Route Taxes

Sheriff Brown has certified to the Henderson Route authorities the amount of their county taxes due Hancock County for 1910. The records show that the road pays taxes at the rate of 60 cents per hundred on 24.10 miles of trackage which is assessed by the state officials at $10,000 per mile. They also pay on $1,500 worth of personal property in the county, such as depots etc., making the total amount of their county tax (not state) $1,312.50. In the various school districts through which this road runs in the county their property is assessed at $210,550.00. The school tax rate being 20 cents on the hundred, they pay into that fund $42,110, which goes to the county school fund and not to the districts separately as it formerly did. When we consider the amount of labor employed in the county on this road, the wages paid to this labor which is left among the merchants, and these taxes, it can be seen that the road leaves a vast sum here each year.—Clarion.

BALLOON RECORD FOR YACHTSMAN

Leroy Taylor of New York After Distance Mark.

WACO, TEX., TO MANHATTAN.

Possible to Cover Air Line of 1,800
Miles in Forty Hours—Leo Stevens, Professional Aeronaut, to Accompany Clubman to Beat Count de la Vaux's Flight of 1,193 Miles.

Hope of breaking the world's record for balloon flight which has stood for ten years, possesses Leroy Taylor, a member of the New York Yacht, the Larchmont Yacht, and other clubs, and he will try to bring the trophy to America by a flight to start within the next few weeks from Waco, Tex.

His associate will be Leo Stevens,
a well known professional balloonist.
The balloon to be the largest spherical one ever made.

Waco was selected as the starting point after much consideration, in which the meteorological observations of the weather bureau figured largely.
Favorable wind currents will give a balloon ascending there the longest possible flight in the general direction of New York.

Waco is sufficiently inland almost to obliterate the danger of being blown out to sea. There are few mountains ranges to be passed, and these are of secondary importance so far as size and effect upon winds are concerned.

Again, Waco is in the center of a comparatively steady blowing winds at certain seasons of the year. It is in the hope of getting one from the southwest that the flight has been timed for January.

The balloon will carry water and provisions for a month. This is considered essential, as long stretches of desert land must be passed over and the aeronauts may have to land where water and food are unobtainable.

Taylor is an enthusiastic amateur at the balloon game. He has been in several competitions and recently flew from Pittsburg to a point near Vincent, France, to Korystovych, Russia, 1,193 miles, in October, 1900. They were not in the air long enough, however, to give them the endurance record. This is held by Clifford Harmon who, in October, 1910, in a night of St. Louis remained aloft for forty eight hours and twenty-six minutes, though he covered nowhere near the distance the Frenchman did.

Just Missed Record.
In the same month Hawley and Post made their sensational flight from St.
Louis. It will be remembered they were lost to the world for about a week; their safe landing was reported from the Canadian backwoods.
It was established that they had remained aloft for forty-five hours and fifty-six minutes and had covered 1,171 miles, both performances just short of world's records.

On an air line the distance from Waco to New York is approximately 1,800 miles, which under highly favoring conditions could be covered readily in less than forty hours, though most travelers at an average speed of a little less than forty miles an hour. The balloon now being built is being developed along lines that it is hoped will permit it to remain aloft from sixty to seventy-two hours. The ordinary duration of a balloon's gas charge is about forty-eight hours.

The craft will take months to build.
It will have a lifting power of 13,000 pounds. As the bag and basket carrying two men and fully equipped will weigh about 5,000 pounds, this will allow 8,000 pounds of ballast. The bag is built of two thicknesses of special linen, with rubber between. It has been found that linen is far better for such use than silk, not alone on account of its greater toughness, but because the silk is a too ready conductor for electricity, with its attendant danger to the gas.

Wonderful School Record.
Four Children of One Family Punctual
For Thirty-two Years.
Few families can boast of the school attendance record of the four children of J. R. Danant, assistant overseer of Newchurch, Isle of Wight, who have been connected with the local school for seventeen years.

They have attended for an aggregate of thirty-two years and one month without missing a single attendance.
The record is as follows: Harry Dan-ant, five years and five months; Charlie, ten years and five months; Nellie seven years and ten months; and Adrian, eight years and five months.
The school is about two miles from the family's residence, and the distance traveled by the quartet in journeying to and from school exceeds 20,000 miles.

Do You Get Up With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.
Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage.

It corrects inability to hold water and scaling pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble.

When writing mention
reading this generous offer in this paper and your address to
Dr. Kilmer & Co., New York, N. Y., Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

SHE LOVED SNUFF.
Remarkable Will and Funeral of a Queer Englishwoman.
The will of Mrs. Margaret Thompson, which is preserved as a curiosity at Somerset House, England, is a tribute to the delights and consolations of snuff. The testatrix directed that in her coffin should be buried with her all her handkerchiefs and sufficient of the best Scotch snuff to cover her body.
This she preferred to flowers, as "nothing could be more fragrant and so refreshing to me as that precious portion." Further, the six greatest snuff tins in the parish of St. James, Westminster, were to be her bearers. Six old maids, each bearing in her hand a box filled with the best Scotch snuff to take for their refreshment as they walked, were to bear the pall.
Before the corpse the minister was to walk, carrying and partaking of a pound of snuff. At every twenty yards a handful of snuff was to be delivered to the bystanders, who so in the case of the testatrix the house were to be placed two bushels of the same quality of snuff for gratuitous distribution. In order to insure the carrying out of her wishes the testatrix made the legacies given by the will dependent upon an exact and literal fulfillment of the conditions above stated. In the will she made all concerned to regard snuff as the grand cordial of nature.

Hives, eczema, itea or salt tean sets clothing. Doan's ointment cures the most obstinate cases. Why suffer. All druggists sell it.

Toned It Down.
"King Edward" said an English victor in New York, "that snobbish-ness. To show how ridiculous snob-bishness was he used often to tell about an alphabet book of his childhood."

"This book had alliterative sentences arranged under each letter, thus:
"Callous Caroline called a cur cruelty."
"Henry hated the heat of her hats."
"Under the letter V came the fac-tious sentence."
"William Vilkins viped his veskit."
"But the young prince's snobbish-ness thought this sentence too vulgar and low for their charge and accordingly they substituted for it the more refined and genteel line:
"Vicent Vining viewed a vacant villa."

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA
Genius and Mediocrity.
Cornelli did not speak correctly the language of which he was such a master. Descartes was silent in mixed company. Thucydides, when asked to play a lute, said: "I cannot do it, but I can make a little village into a great city." Addison was unable to convert in company. Virgil was heavy colloquially. La Fontaine was coarse and stupid when surrounded by men.
The Countess of Pembroke had been often heard to say of Chaucer that his silence was more agreeable to her than his conversation. Socrates, celebrated for his written orations, was so timid that he never ventured to speak in public. Dryden said that he was unfit for company. Hence it has been remarked, "Mediocrity can talk; it is for genius to observe."

GROTESQUE NAMES.

Burdens That Innocent English Children Had to Bear.

In England, as in other countries,
thousands of people go through life cherishing a grudge against their parents for giving them absurd or incongruous names. It was most natural that a demure and pretty girl in a north suburb should have a son called Bunsby, when she had to answer to the name of Bunsby, given in honor of the winner of a race fifteen years before.
Among the names registered at Somerset House are Alice and Graces and Nun Nicer, which were innocently borne by two little girls who found them most embarrassing in after years.

The appalling name of Wellington Wolsey Roberts was borne by a young man who, in disposition and appearance, was anything but militant, and as little likely to win fame on the battlefield as his predecessors Arthur Wellesley Wellington Waterloo Cox and Napoleon the Great Eagle.

However, even these names, inappropriate as they may be, are to be preferred to Roger the Ass, Anna (sic) Domini Davies and Boddies.
To parents of large families the advent of another child is not always welcome, but it is scarcely kind to make the unexpected child bear a tolerance of disapproval. It must be rather terrible to go through life, for example, as Not Wanted James, What Another, Only Fanny Willard Brown, or even as Last of 'Em Harper, or Still Another Hewitt. And yet these are all names which the foolish caprice of British parents has imposed on innocent children.—Chicago Record-Herald.

"My child was burned terribly about the face, neck and chest. I applied Dr.
Thomas' Eucletic Oil. The pain ceased and the child was able to restful sleep."
—Mrs. Nancy M. Hanson, Hamburg,
N. Y.

The Price of a Life.
According to Anglo-Saxon law, every man's life, including that of the king, was valued at a fixed price, and any one who killed another was compelled to pay a money payment upon a fixed scale. The life of a peasant was reckoned to be worth 200 shillings, that of a knight 1,000 shillings, and the killing of a king involved the reign in a payment of 7,200 shillings.
It has been pointed out that the beir to the throne could thus get rid of the existing occupant by murdering him and thereafter handing over the throne, according to the scale, to the cheapest, when his offense would be purchased and his money would come back to himself, for in those days the sovereign received all fines as personal perquisites. There is very little doubt that these rough means were practically applied in the case of some rulers of England in the pre-conquest period.

Stevenson Obligated.
Robert Louis Stevenson once sent the following quaint letter to an automobile luncheon club.
"You have sent me a slip to write on.
You have sent me an addressed envelope.
You have sent me my stamps. Many have done as much before. You have spelled my name right, and some have done that. In one point you stand alone; you have sent me the stamps for my postoffice, not the stamps for yours. What is asked with so much consideration I take a pleasure to grant. Here, since you value it and have been at the pains to earn it by such unusual attentions—here is the signature.

PORTUGAL AND FEATURES OF A. D. 1910

Political Events In United States, England and Mexico Also Cut Important Figure.

By JAMES A. EDERGTON.

WHEN compared to its predecessor 1910 was only one of the common or garden variety of years. It did not discover the north pole, it did not have a cluster of centuries, and it did not drive Abdul Hamid from his throne. Yet it saw the first of the Portuguese republic, gave the house of lords a solar plexus blow in England and put the standstoppers to sleep in America. These events and others entitle it to our loving regard.

It also flew high in aviation—something over 10,000 feet, to be exact. It was an industrious year that did not aspire to be a big noise and yet got quite a little done. To put it in classical language, it was not much on dress parade, but was "a good booger to work."

Deposing of King Manuel.

In the political world the big event was, of course, the driving of King Manuel out of Portugal and the establishment of a republic. Compared to the magnitude of the event this transformation was accompanied by a little bloodshed. The affair had its spice of scandal, as do most royal performances. It appears that a Parisian dancer of the name of Gaby Deslys took the youthful monarch's eye, with the result that Manuel spent much time in Paris and Gaby rejoined not infrequently in Lisbon. Obviously this might not have excited comment, being quite the usual thing among kings, but inasmuch as Portugal was tired of monarchy anyway the gossip played its part. As a result Mlle. Gaby will go down to history as the highest kick on record, having kicked off a king's crown.

The year beheld the accession of George V. in England, an event that was of no influence politically and but little in any other way. Of far greater importance were the two British parliamentary elections, both resulting in Liberal coalition victories by practically the same majorities. The first of these forced through the house of lords the single tax budget, and the second practically sealed the fate of the peers and decreed some form of Irish home rule. Taken together, these two victories constitute the most significant triumph for the progressive side witnessed in England since the adoption of the reform bill.

China Also Awakened.

Perhaps the third event of importance in foreign politics was the meeting of the Chinese senate, definitely marking the beginning of parliamentary government in the Celestial Kingdom, the last great nation that had held out against the rising tide of democracy. When China has a parliament and quits wearing pigtail the millennium will be waiting just around the corner.

Other notable political happenings abroad were the establishment of the landless kingdom of Montenegro, the fight to separate church and state in Spain, the Mexican uprising and the swallowing of Korea by Japan. Land of the Morning Calm is being given such a touch of high life by the Japs that she is now the Land of the Morning After.

We have also had some politics at home. It is almost brutal to write about the elections of 1910, but it is impossible to give a full blown review of the year without them. Democratic and progressive victories were generally the result. The progressives practically doubled their representation in both houses and elected governors in California, Kansas, Michigan, Nebraska, New Hampshire, South Dakota, Tennessee, Wisconsin, and Wyoming, although in the last named state the progressive Republican candidate ran on the Democratic ticket.

The Democrats carried the national house by about sixty, made such gains in the senate that the progressives have the balance of power, and elected governors not only in the southern states, with the exception of Tennessee, but in Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Maine, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma and Oregon. This was the first time the Democrats had such a victory in nearly twenty years.

American Politics Likely.

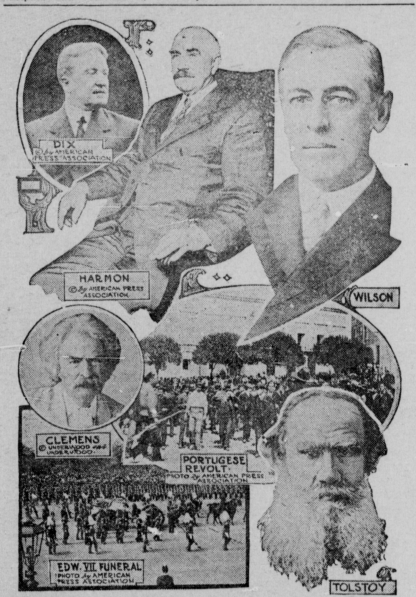

Political events during the year leading up to the election were the Baileger investigation, resulting in a disreputable report, the dismissal of Pinchot, the forcing through of the Taft program in congress, the two chief items being the railroad bill and postal reform. The latter, the instant revision in congress, resulting in removing the speaker from the committee on rules, enlarging that committee by making it elective by the house, the return of Roosevelt from Africa amid loud acclamations and his subsequent disastrous venture into the presidency, the death of the president to Panama and the practical reorganization of the United States supreme court due to two deaths and one resignation. The year 1910 has been the most notable

Mark Twain, Tolstoy, Julia Ward Howe and Edward VII. Notable Among Death List of Year.

In the history of aviation. It witnessed the first flight over the Alps and has broken altitude and speed records so often that the fragments are scattered all over two continents. Flights across the English channel have become so common that they call for only a four line item in the newspapers. Some comparison between 1910 and 1909 may be made on the basis that the highest flight last year was something like 1,000 feet, while this year the record is 10,488 feet. As for speed, Bellenger, a French aviator, flew 100 miles at a rate of eighty-six miles an hour.

Aviators' Great Achievements.

Cross country flights between cities have been the feature of 1910. These were led off by Paulhan going from London to Manchester. Then Curtiss flew from Albany to New York, and Hamilton sped from New York to Philadelphia and returned in one day.

TWO NOTABLE EVENTS OF 1910, THREE DEMOCRATS WHOSE GUBERNATORIAL SUCCESS MAX HAVE NATIONAL EFFECT, AND TWO AUTHORS OF WORLDWIDE RENOWN WHO WERE AMONG THE YEAR'S DEAD.

Latter Brookins covered the distance in less than two hours. The aviators efforts to conduct a race from Chicago to New York and from St. Louis to New York were abandoned, although large prizes were offered.

Neither did Walter Wellman fly across the Atlantic in a dirigible. That was another case of too much wind, although Wellman himself blamed it on the equilibrium. His balloon America started from Atlantic City in a fog, beat it up the coast to the neighborhood of Nantucket, then got to going south, and after traveling about 870 miles and being aloft seventy-two hours the crew was picked up or, rather, picked down to the north of Bermuda. Another notable balloon voyage was that of the America II in a flight from St. Louis to northern Quebec, a distance of 1,355 miles, breaking all records.

Considering the widespread activity in aviation the death list was small, yet at least four famous bird men gave their lives to the sport. These were Delagrange, Johnstone, Rolfs and Chaves, the last named being dashed to death just after his thrilling feat of crossing the Alps.

Many Sporting Records Upt.

In the world of sports the Philadelphia Athletics won from the Chicago Cubs in the world's baseball championship. Barney Oldfield broke the world's automobile speed record, going a mile in 27.33 seconds. Two boxing championships were settled. One of these was for the lightweight belt, in which event Wolgast defeated Battling Nelson, and the other was the dashing of the hopes of the white race when the mighty Jeffries could not come back. The advent of Halley's comet was not exactly a sporting event. In fact, this eighty year visitor saw anything but a good sport, since it lamentably failed to live up to its opportunities. If it had knocked the earth halfway across the solar system and so have prevented the Democratic victory. Yet there are scientists who say that a comet's head is as massive as a political platform promise, while its tail is as thin as the average campaign speech.

A twin performance to Mr. Halley's false alarm was Dr. Cook's confession. Either the flower garlanded doctor was tired of hiding or he needed the money for which, it is said, he sold this latest of his literary masterpieces. At any rate, he is not now certain whether he reached the north pole, but wants the world to forgive him the purple snow story, the wealth of roses and the good American dollars showered on him during his lecture tour.

Cook Controversy Renewed.

In this connection it is worthy of note that Professor Parker returned from his Mount McKinley expedition without having climbed the mountain, but bringing back photographs of the peak twenty miles away that Cook scaled and on which he took his famous pictures of the "top of the continent."

Other notable miscellaneous happenings of the year were Carnegie's ten million dollar gift to peace, followed by an American war scare the next day; the census which showed that we have nearly 92,000,000 people in the United States proper and over 100,000,000 including the outlying possessions, the pan-American congress, the conservation congress addressed by Taft and Roosevelt and the labor strikes in Philadelphia and New York.

There were the usual number of fires, storms, eruptions, explosions, wrecks and other horrors. Among the most important disasters were the flooding of Paris and Tokyo, the twenty million dollar fire in the "White City" at the Brussels exposition, the

THE BELTED PLAID.

This Was the Original Dress of the Scottish Highlander.

The original dress of the highlander was the belted plaid. This was a piece of tartan cloth, two yards broad and four long, which was drawn around the waist in nicely adjusted folds and tightly buckled with a belt. The lower part came down to the knees in much the same manner as the modern kilt, while the upper part was drawn up and adjusted to the left shoulder, so that the right arm might be perfectly free. This upper part was the plaid, which was used as a covering for the shoulders and body in wet weather, and when the use of both arms was required it was fastened across the breast with a brooch, often curiously enriched. A brooch was also used to fasten the plaid on the left shoulder. To attire himself in the belted plaid required on the part of the highlander no small amount of dexterity. The usual way was to lay it on the floor and after carefully arranging the folds to lie down upon it and then buckle it on. The lower end was fastened at the right hip. The utility of such a dress in the highlands is obvious, for the plaid rendered the man indifferent to storms and prepared to pass a night in the open air in the most inclement weather, while the loose undergarment enabled him to wade rivers or ascend mountains with equal ease. It was thus peculiarly adapted to the warrior, the hunter and the shepherd—London Mail.

Even with this extended list the natural dexterity hardly kept pace with the political fatalities. As a solace, however, we have in place of the fallen a cluster of brand new or freshly elected governors, among the number being Woodrow Wilson, John A. Dix, Simon E. Baldwin, Eugene N. Foss, Frederick W. Plaford, Judson Harmon, Chase S. DeBor, Walter Roscoe Strubs and Elvan W. Johnson. Who knows but that some of these may be names to conjure with in coming years?

W. M. Mattingly, of Long Lick, came over Monday to visit his sister, Mrs. Rhodes, near Irvington. Mr. Mattingly is a very enthusiastic sheep man and is taking great interest in sheep here captured some good premiums at the Breckenridge County Fair last Fall. He says his premium sheep were sold to Louisiana parties through his neighbor, Sidney Owen. Mr. Mattingly bought a fine thoroughbred Southdown buck last fall and he now has thirteen fine ewes from which he is expecting big results in the Spring. Mr. Mattingly is an enterprising, progressive farmer and a good roads man. Says we have the best soil in Kentucky in Breckenridge county and the only thing that keeps us from being the first county in the State is our poor roads. Mr. Mattingly is right. If every farmer would take up the matter of good roads, talk for them and work for them and see to it that our road supervisors do their work right and in the right places and at the right time of year, this county would soon have good roads. People generally get what they want and work for. Wake up farmers on this all important question of good roads.

With the beginning of every New Year there are usually many changes in business circles. The first noticed is that in the firm of Heston, Whitworth & Co., of Hardinsburg. Russell Compton has been made manager to succeed C. C. Brock. Mr. Compton is a brother of Paul Compton, who with Jess Whitworth controls the majority of the company's stock. We are glad to see another Compton boy coming into the business enterprises of the county. He is with a splendid firm which was organized about twelve years ago and one that refuses failure. From observation it can be seen that industrious, patient, steady young men can make good, and the Compton brothers and their business associates are of this class. Let us watch their industry with interest and wish them prosperity.

The State Democratic Committee met in Louisville last week and ordered a primary for the various state offices to be held May 27, 1911. This may be a wise move on the part of the committee, but it is not the wish of the rank and file of the Democrats in this county, who were almost unanimous for an old time Democratic convention. The thing for the Democrats to do now is to see to it that we have a fair primary and a square deal of every candidate and then stand by the nominee and see that he is elected.

John Morecock tells this good story on his old friend Bill Hensley, who was a very enthusiastic worker for the stock law, recently voted on in the Hardinsburg district. John says he was even more eager for the law to carry when he told him it included chickens, but alas and alack, when he cast his vote he voted against it instead of for it. John says this is the first time in forty years he has gotten one on Bill.

The old boys and girls of Cloverport all come back in the parlor car, which is a pretty good sign of their prosperity. They wear good looking clothes and joyous faces, and seem to think that there is no place better than this old town after all.

Everybody had a great Christmas. We had such a big share of the season's joys that we were ashamed to lack Santa Claus in the face. He did so much more for us than we did for others.

We direct attention to the meeting of the tobacco growers to be held at Irvington next Saturday. This is an important meeting for the tobacco men and should be well attended.

Cloverport had a deal of magnatism this Christmas. So many home comers have not been here in years and the day was one of many happy family gatherings.

Nice enough to send presents early, but receiving them a week a head of time, is like having a Christmas stocking with a hole in it.

A pretty good rule for the new year is to see how much trading we can do with our home merchants during nineteen eleven.

One can't realize how short twelve months are, until time comes to say Hello to the New Year.

OLD TIME GIRDLERS.

They Were Indispensable Articles of Wear in the Middle Ages.

In the middle ages at the girdle were hung the thousand and one odds and ends needed and utilized in everyday affairs. The scrivener had his inkhorn and pen attached to it, the scholar his book or books, the monk his crucifix and rosary, the innkeeper his tallies and everybody his knife. So many and so various were the articles attached to it that the flippant began to poke fun. In an old play there is mention of a merchant who had hanging at his girdle a pouch, a spectacle case, a "pennard," a pen and inkhorn and a "handkercher," with many other trinkets besides, of which a merry companion said, "It was like a haberdashery's shop of small wares." In another early play a lady says to her maid: "Give me my girdle and see that all the furniture be at it. Look that pinchers, the penknife, the knife to close letters with, the bodkin, the ear picker and the scale be in the case." Girdles were in some respects like the chainettes of more modern times, but they differed therefrom in being more useful, more comprehensive in regard both to sex and to articles worn, and when completely finished more costly. It is partly for this reason that we find girdles bequeathed as precious heirlooms and as valuable presents to keep the giver's memory green after death. They were not infrequently of great intrinsic value.

Napkin Rings.

For the maiden who travels much or who is going on a long visit an embroidered napkin ring of white linen is a timely and serviceable gift. These rings are cut in strips of the required length, with a triangular point at the unembroidered end, and are scalloped and buttonholed all around. A spray of flowers makes a pretty decoration, with the monogram of the owner bequeathed. A buttonholed loop at the very end folds over and fastens to the tiny pearl button at the other side. Unlike most embroidered pieces, these rings should be stiffly starched when laund-

COLLEGIANS WILL FLY. Harvard and Columbia Arrange New Sport Competition.

The first intercollegiate aviation contest will be held next spring between Harvard and Columbia at Belmont park. The Harvard Aero club sent a challenge for a gliding contest to the Columbia station of the aeronautical reserve recently, and the Columbia students have obtained the permission of the faculty committee on organization to go ahead and arrange for the contest.
It is expected that the Columbia club will insist on motor driven contrivances.
This suggestion is adopted the Columbia students will immediately begin work on a biplane. Philip W. Wilcox, who built a biplane at Columbia last year ago, will have supervision of the construction of the machine, but all the work will be done by students.

PARIS LOSES EXQUISITE.

Andre Fouquieres to Decorate Court of Kapurthala.

Paris, it is said, is to lose one of her chief ornaments. The modern Ben Brummel of France, the most exquisite of twentieth century dandies, the spoiled aristocrat of the Paris drawing room and the country house, is about to leave the scenes of his triumphs. M. Andre Fouquieres, to whom this inadequate description applies, has succumbed to the blandishments of the maharaja of Kapurthala.

Not long ago the maharaja robbed Europe of one of her most beautiful daughters in the person of a Spanish dancer whom he placed high among his wives. And now he is going to take away one who in inventing eccentricities of dress and above all in the management of a cotillion defied competition. The maharaja has said to him, so rumor has it:

"You have nothing more to do in this Parisian rabble of society that has lost all respect for hierarchy and for delicacies of tone. You are much too distinguished and refined for France, and I ask you to come with me to preside over and organize the fetes that will be given at the marriage of my daughter."

And the invitation has been accepted.

Wanted to Know.

"Have you ever read any of my husband's poetry?"

"Yes, I have had that—that—yes, yes."

"What do you think of it?"

"Madam, are you looking for a compliment for your husband's verses or for sympathy for yourself?"—Houston Post.

Different Now.

"Before we were married," sighed the fond wife, "you used to call me up by long distance telephone just as you used to say, to hear my voice."

"Well," retorted the rebellious husband, "nowadays you won't let me get far enough from you to use the long distance."—London Telegraph.

FONDNESS FOR DRESS UPHELD

A Clergyman Who Has the Tendency to Advise Men to Marry Girls Whose Gowns Are Modeled After the Latest Fashions—Claude Lorraine Mirron.

Dear Elsa—Such a funny thing happened while I was marketing this morning. A very attractive looking fish shop has recently located along the corner from us, which I patronized for the first time today. The man who waited on me was a foreigner of some unknown nationality, and when I asked for a quart of oysters he was plainly puzzled, but when he picked up a large quart bag the tables were turned, and it was I who was the most puzzled. We looked at one another for a moment, and then I gently said, "It was oysters I asked for."

"Yes, I know," he murmured, "but are you sure they are sold by the quart?"

He screwed up his face and then very unaccountably picked up a wooden quart measure such as those used for measuring apples and things and threw in a couple of oysters in their shells. It suddenly dawned on me that he was going to give me a dry quart of oysters in the shells, just as he was about to place them in the stout paper bag I interrupted the proceedings by saying, "Never mind," and fled precipitately that night have a chance to laugh without offending the poor man.

The Laugh Cure.

This story is one I will tell as my contribution to the half hour laugh cure which we have instituted as a regular thing each evening after dinner. It is fine for the digestion and an all round good thing. We all take a turn at producing for the occasion something which will create laughter. To make the effort worth while and to introduce a sporty element into the game we have an amusement fund, and the one voted to give the most amusing story has the privilege of selecting the entertainment for which the amusement fund shall next be expended. The story can be either read or told, or a series of funny pictures may furnish the fun, or some one may make a grotesque face and set us all into a "fit of giggles." Perhaps this sounds very silly, but in reality it is part of the plan to relax entirely from dignity and restraint.

About a glowing fire the trio, as Dick calls Dorothy, Margaret and me, were sitting drinking tea the other afternoon and eating the most delicious new tea dainty, a concoction of Margaret's. Before getting down to the gist of the story let me say that this same dainty was nothing more than a small round, rather thick biscuit plentifully sprinkled with cream cheese, in the center of which luridly reposed a maraschino cherry, but it was fine.

Suddenly one of us made a remark about a certain pretty woman being so "fond of dress."

"And why shouldn't she be?" spoke up Dorothy. "It surely is one of the special and important duties of a woman to be fond of dress and to exercise all her faculties to make that fondness obvious."

And I, supporting the cause, made my little speech to the effect that a New York clergyman arrived in a talk from the pulpit recently at a sensible conclusion about woman's dress. He had the courage of his conviction and denounced the dowd, and he had the temerity to advise men to choose as wives those girls whose gowns are modeled after the latest fashion and hats of the newest shapes. Just think of such endorsement for the freak hats of the season.

Now, according to my mind, this is common sense. It helps refute the old theory that if a woman takes an interest in dress she is a frivolous, brainless idiot. As a matter of fact, she wears a gown in which she feels she looks well, has a perfect tonic effect on a woman and no less on the people with whom she comes in contact. The what is called a "fashion plate" into an assemblage of badly gowned women and watch the effect. They may disapprove, but they will feel their inferiority. They may be younger in years, but they instantly feel older in spirit. They realize that they have missed something that can only be imparted by the knowledge that one is good to look upon, and though a woman may be plain and past her first youth, she may feel assured that she is this if her clothes are up to date.

The clergyman goes the length of pointing out the woman who likes to be in the "latest fashion" is so likely to be a dull housewife or a social failure, while her opposite is likely to have a dreary mind and manner and be narrow in her views.

Well, we broke up the tea fight by concluding that we didn't want to be slavish imitations of each other sartorially, but unless we kept up with Claude Lorraine Mirron.

I have had a beautiful time lately poking about among the antique shops and have picked up a charming Claude Lorraine mirror. These glasses, you know, are so named from the supposed likeness to the pictures of the famous painter. A Claude mirror is a blackened convex glass which shows the effect of a scene reproduced in a somewhat exaggerated perspective. Lorraine was a painter of landscapes justly celebrated for his renderings of light effects, of sunlight and shadow.
 This kind of mirror is therefore called a Claude glass and is diligently sought after nowadays.

In my journeys I also picked up some pretty jars that resemble specimens of Pueblo works of art, and as I learned that they were intended for bean pots, a sort of glacial variety as it were, I am going to present two of them to as many Boston friends for Christmas gifts.

Don't expect to hear from me until after the holidays, for I'll be just rushed to death up to the last moment.
 Yours as ever,
 MABEL.

Here's a Clever Apron.

One may always learn something new of the thrifty housekeeper. The latest origination along this line is the kitchen apron contrived from the tail of a shirt. A clever little woman who likes to put every penny she can save from necessities into pretty clothes and attractive furnishings for her home gets all her around the house aprons as well as pinafores for the children from her husband's outworn shirts. The collar and bosom of a man's shirt wear out long before the lower portion, and the back breadth, hemmed as it is already, around part of the sides and the bottom makes a very good apron. The top comes just above the bust line, and from there straps made from the shirt sleeves pass over the shoulder and buckle back of the neck. The sides are rounded out to fit smoothly under the arm, and short straps attached at the waist line button in the back. Such an apron may be made in half an hour, buttonholes and all.

How to Curl Feathers.

Before curling feathers that have been laid away they should be hung in the sun and air for hours. The next step is to stroke the quills the wrong way—that is, from the tip to the quill.
 This will make the feather fluffy.

To curl take the plume in the left hand and hold it over steam. Begin at the tip and stroke with a blunt knife, taking about half a dozen strokes at a time. The curl will form underneath. When both sides of the feather are done curl a few of the upper fronds in an opposite direction—that is, so that the curl will fall over the quill.

France Has War Census.

Can Requisition All Aeroplanes, Horses
 and Automobiles.
 The French government has already taken a census of all the horses and automobiles in France so that it can requisition their services in case of war, and it is now drawing up a law to provide for a census of aeroplanes so that it will be able to call upon all the monoplanes and biplanes in the country if need arises.

Course For Luncheon.

As first course for luncheon or dinner cut rounds of the fruit across the pineapple, leaving on the rind. Each as a thick slice. Put a round on a dessert plate, remove tough heart, fill space with powdered sugar and cut into equal sections, but allow the piece to remain round.

Each small section is dipped in the sugar and eaten with the fingers. See that the fruit is thoroughly chilled.

Trouble or Expense.

In many homes apple sauce and apples baked are the only ways of serving this abundant fruit, but there are a number of other styles that will be found quite as appetizing. The following recipes are all tried and trusty ones:

Stuffed Apple Compote.—Pare a dozen fine large apples and carefully remove the core without breaking the apples. Then fill the cavities with an orange or peach marmalade and put them into an agate or earthen ware baking dish with a pound of granulated sugar, half a cupful of water and a dusting of ground cinnamon or grated nutmeg. Let them bake in a moderately hot oven until they are tender.

Serve hot or cold.

Fried Apples.—Julie rather tart apples are best for this purpose. Pare the apples and cut them in round slices and fry them a nice brown in deep hot fat. Drain them in a heated colander and then place them in a dish, sprinkle with sugar and serve with roast pork.

Baked Apple Pudding.—Stew enough apples to make a pint of sauce and while the apples are boiling hot stir in a tablespoonful of butter and nutmeg, mace, cinnamon and allspice to suit the taste. Then take from the fire and stir in the well beaten yolks of two or three eggs. Beat all very light, then beat in the whites of the eggs beaten to a stiff froth. Put into a buttered dish and bake for fifteen minutes in a moderately hot oven. When nicely browned grate nutmeg on top and serve cold with cream and milk.

Apple Pudding Sauce.—Peel, quarter and core six good cooking apples and put them in a saucepan with a pint of cold water and add a lemon and cook for half an hour. Press the apples through a sieve into a bowl, add powdered sugar to sweeten to taste, add half a cupful, and a teaspoonful of ground cinnamon and half a cupful of good brandy. Set back on the stove and let the juice boil for five minutes.
Serve with apple pudding.

This salmon recipe is excellent for Sunday night supper.

Hot Canned Salmon.—Set a can of salmon in a saucepan of boiling water over the fire and let the water simmer fifteen or twenty minutes. Open the can close to the edge, drain off the liquid, then turn the salmon on to the center of a serving dish. Surround with potatoes cut in lengthwise quarters or in balls cooked tender and drained. Garnish with a hard cooked egg cut in quarters. Serve egg sauce in a sauce boat.

Egg Sauce.—Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, in a cooking pan, add a tablespoonful of flour and one-fourth of salt and add one cupful of cold water and stir until boiling. Draw to a

HOT CANNED SALMON.

cooler part of the range and gradually stir in two tablespoonfuls of butter cut in small pieces. Finish with a hard cooked egg chopped fine or cut in slices.
Here's just the thing for a novel cheese course. Roll cream cheese into balls nearly an inch in diameter and roll the balls in pistachio nuts blanched and chopped. Pile the balls in center of a chop plate and surround with a wreath of orange or grapefruit marmalade. Surround the marmalade with hot toasted crackers. Serve at the close of luncheon or dinner in the place of the usual pudding, pie or other sweet dish. If preferred pass the cheese, marmalade and crackers on a tray in separate receptacles.

To Mend Tablecloth.

To mend a frayed tablecloth baste a piece of sheer muslin or organdie firmly on the frayed side of the cloth, keeping the threads as nearly as possible in their proper position; then place that part of the cloth in an embroidery hoop, and darn away under the frayed threads and into the firm cloth an inch or two on either side. Use, if possible, linen thread pulled from a piece of new table linen. After darning during the mended place in the cloth will hardly be noticed.

MAN WILL FREEZE TO DEATH

Dr. Wiley's Theory of Ultimate Extinction of Life.

The earth is slowly cooling and man will freeze, not starve, to death in the distant future, according to Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief chemist of the department of agriculture, who foresaw
the subject of germs and pure foods
long enough to address the Secular
league at Washington.

"In the future," he said further, "the air will furnish heat, fuel and power.
However, not starve, to death in the distant future, according to Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief chemist of the department of agriculture, who foresaw
the subject of germs and pure foods
long enough to address the Secular
league at Washington.

PERAMBULATING THEATRE FRANCE'S LATEST SCHEME.

Will Travel by Automobile and Seat
1,500 Persons.

A perambulating theatre fitted with the latest scenic appliances and seating 1,500 persons will take the road in France. As in the days of Moliere, performances will be given wherever there is a favored spot, but instead of the chariots and horses there will be a train of eight automobiles, drawing twenty-one cars.

The idea originated with Firmin Ge-mier, a well known Parisian theatre director, and it became public through the fine arts report of Deputy Paul Goncourt. The following details of the scheme were announced:

"Local and provincial theaters usually are insufficient for fine dramatic productions. Moreover, many communities have no theaters. The whole idea is based on decentralization and the wish to carry good plays to the provinces. I intend to give the classics and the best modern plays. When I arrive at a town I shall erect a tent with a stage, boxes, orchestra seats, drape, wings, scenery—everything complete, including a central lighting and heating plant. Thanks to a new system, the lighting will be as good as in the best theaters."

"Special new scenery will be prepared for every play. There will be twenty actors, directed by myself, and I shall employ forty machinists. We shall sell seats from 20 to 60 cents apiece and will spare no pains to make the productions perfect in every way. We cannot travel fast—perhaps only six miles an hour—but we shall travel surely. We expect a great success."

The twenty-five cars composing the western trunk line commission have agreed to postpone the effective date of their increased freight rates from Aug. 1 to Nov. 1.

The British house of commons has passed the new bill of King George, amounting to £470,000 a year, exactly the same sum that was allocated to King Edward.

Something New In Kitchen Ware

The "1892" Pure Spun Aluminum Ware is rapidly coming into use for cooking purposes. It takes the place of agate and enamel ware because while its first cost is a trifle more than ordinary ware, it is really much cheaper in the long run, as it is guaranteed for twenty-five years and will last practically a life time.

The genuine "1892" Ware, made only from pure SPUN (not cast) Aluminum, will not crack, scale, peel, break, scorch or burn.

It looks like silver but weighs only about one-quarter as much, is easily cleaned and handled, and will not rust, corrode or tarnish. Absolutely pure, non-poisonous and wholesome! saves money, time and doctor's bills.

Be sure you get the original and genuine ware stamped with the Maltese Cross. At your dealer's.

HARDINSBURG

Allie Kinchloe went to Louisville Monday.

Anthony Reezor of Rome, Ind., has moved to Hardinsburg. George Peyton, of Greeley, Colorado, is at home for a few weeks at the Commercial Hotel.

Halliday Peyton, of Owensboro, and Miss Lillian Morgan, of Brandenburg, are guests of the Misses Peyton.

John Shepard, of Covington, spent Christmas with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. E. L. Shepard.

Dr. John E. Kinchloe was called to Sample Sunday where he had to amputate the greater part of both hands of the six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Beauchamp. The little fellow had got hold of one of the large fire crackers which sell for 2 or 3 cents each, and, ignorant of the danger, held it in both hands after lighting. The result was a fearful mangle of the hands, leaving but one unharmed finger and, of course, rendering a most serious life-long mangle. This is another argument against the sale of these dangerous Christmas goods. Let our lawmakers and town councils so legislate that these dangers are minimized and that only safe Christmas toys are used.

Sherman Hall came down from Frankfort for the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Pile entertain the High School and the Eighth Grade this evening. An old fashioned candy pulling will be given.

See Dr. Walker for your dental work.

Judge Moorman went to Louisville Monday on legal business.

Prof. and Mrs. R. Y. Maxey are spending a few days with relatives at Sacramento.

Miss Virginia McGavock, of Cloverport, arrives today to be the guest of Miss Mary Franklin Beard for a few days.

EVADING THE LAW.

The Pictures of Flying Birds in a Mohammedan Mosque.

According to one of the tenets of the Mohammedan religion, it is a sin to make a picture of "any living thing." The elaborate decorations of the palaces and mosques of the east are almost exclusively made up of ingeniously interlaced geometric designs, arabesques or flowers, intermixed with sentences of the Koran.

There is a belief among Mussulmans that at the day of judgment Allah will demand that the artist who has made the image of a living thing shall show that image with life and that, failing to do this, the artist will be sent to perdition for his sin.

A gentleman who visited a mosque in Algiers found that the tiles with which the building is decorated, which are very old and very beautiful, are adorned with flights of birds. He expressed surprise at this and asked if the command against such representation were a modern edict.

"Oh, no," answered the pious Algerian to whom he addressed the question, "these are not pictures of living birds."

"But they are painted as if flying across the tiles," the other said in some astonishment.

"Yes," the Mussulman replied, "but do you not see that about the neck of each there is a fine black line? That is to show that the artist painted only dead birds, and the command of the Koran is not violated."

CASTE IN THE ARMY.

Civilians Find It Difficult to Understand Military Discipline.

One thing not commonly understood among civilians is the completeness of the barrier which divides the army officers from the soldiers, or, as they are more generally called, the "men." It is always vastly amusing to those familiar with the service to observe the errors in this respect frequently made by the novelist and the playwright.

Personal qualifications have nothing whatever to do with the matter. A soldier may be a gentleman who has enlisted with the purpose of obtaining a commission, yet there can be between him and his officers no social intercourse of any sort, and severe penalties would be inflicted upon the officer who would attempt to disregard the rule.

It might seem that this enforcement of a caste sense would result in much hard feeling on the side of the men. Such, however, is not the case. It is taken for granted and recognized as conducive to "good order and military discipline." It is a military regulation like any other and implies no disgrace. Directly a soldier's enlistment is out or directly he rises from the ranks the prohibition is removed.—Delineator.

Roundsabout.

The very louding harrier assumed the approved legal look of indisputable superiority.

"Now, my good lady," he observed, shaking his admonitory forefinger at the woman in the witness box, "you do not appreciate the gravity of the question. Endeavor to concentrate what brain power nature has endowed you with and answer me. What relationship does the defendant bear to you?"

"Right-ho!" responded the good lady. "Is father's cousin was my cousin once removed, and is mother, married my uncle's only brother—"

"My good lady," interrupted the judge indignantly, "I am not here to solve puzzles!"

"Well, I'm blowed!" ejaculated the lady. "You was talkin' jest nah as though you'd cornered most of the brain pair goin' for 'em 'adn't swanked quite so much 'd 'a' told yer plainly 'an' simply! 'Ese me brother!"—London Answers.

Fun in the Home.

Whatever your lot in life, keep joy with you, says Orison Sweet Holden in Success Magazine. It is a great healer. Sorrow, worry, jealousy, envy, bad temper, create friction and grind away the delicate human machinery so that the brain loses its cunning.

Half the misery in the world would be avoided if the people would make a business of having plenty of fun at home instead of running everywhere else in search of it.

"Now for best and fun." "No Business Troubles Allowed Here." These are good home building mottoes.

When you have had a perplexing day, when your nerves have grown with you, and you go home at night exhausted, discouraged, blue, instead of making your home miserable by going over your troubles and trials and busy them; instead of dragging them home and making yourself and your family unhappy with them and polluting the very evening, just look everything that is disagreeable in your office.

Just resolve that your home shall be a place for bright pictures and pleasant memories, kindly feelings toward everybody and, as Mr. Roosevelt says, "a corking good time" generally. If you go through your "business phase," try good honest housework as an antidote. Work hard with your hands and at the same time cultivate a cheerful spirit and an interested habit of mind.

Domestic Girl Is Happy.

The girl whose sphere is set in domesticity can find as keen a satisfaction in doing her work to the very best of her ability as can her sister who achieves college honors or fame in the literary world. Indeed, there is something peculiarly satisfying and fine and healthy about work with the hands, because, for one thing, it is generally service for others.

After the great mass of women must inevitably find their scope in domestic life, and every girl, whatever her position may be, would be the better for two years' thorough training in housewifery, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. Therefore, if you are going through your "business phase," try good honest housework as an antidote. Work hard with your hands and at the same time cultivate a cheerful spirit and an interested habit of mind.

A Phone Incident.

A housekeeper in New York phoned to the next man, "Have you any liver this morning?"

"I hope so," came the response, with a chery laugh which was not like the butcher's.

"Are you not the butcher?" she further inquired.

"Well, some people call me that, but I am really Dr. So-and-so," came the laughing reply.

As the woman recognized the name of one of the most famous dentists in town, she passed an apology and nervously rang up "Central" again.

WELL AIR BEDDING.

Recipes For Various Things Helpful to the Housewife.

Why is it that so many housekeepers who see to it that their houses are spotlessly clean, with nary a speck of dust or mud, do not appreciate the value of clean, fresh air in the home? In the summer, when one is glad enough to open the window, proper ventilation is an easy matter, but when the cold breezes blow and the coal supply is not unlimited the housewife seems to think if the bedroom windows are open for five minutes in the morning this will supply enough of the life giving ozone to stock the house for the day.

To begin at the bedroom, it is the idea of most housewives that to turn the bed covers back for a few minutes before the open window will sufficient air the bed. And so it is the idea of many of us. But the covers should be taken completely off the bed and spread over two chairs by the window and the mattress turned back. These should be aired all morning before making the bed. Every window in the room should be opened, and, in fact, one window should be partly open all the time except when a storm would drive through.

At night the clothes should not be allowed to lie in a heap where they have been carelessly thrown, but each garment should be separated from the others and hung on a clothes tree near a window where the night air will blow on them, which, contrary to popular superstition, is not injurious, but beneficial.

In the kitchen the frequent opening of the outer door generally lets in sufficient fresh air, but the living room is a different matter. The best plan is to have the carpenter make a two inch board to fit across the outer sill so that when the sash is closed down it meets the board. In this way there will be a space between the upper and lower sash in the middle of the window, which will permit of sufficient fresh air entering. If varnished the same as the other woodwork this will not mar the appearance of the window.

You Can Work Near a Window in winter when you have a Perfection Oil Heater. It is a portable radiator which can be moved to any part of a room, or to any room in a house. When you have a you do not have to work close to the stove, which is usually far from the window. You can work where you wish, and be warm. You can work on dull winter days in the full light near the window, without being chilled to the bone.

The Perfection Oil Heater quickly gives heat, and with one filling of the font burns steadily for nine hours, without smoke or smell. An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. The filler cap, put in like a cork in a bottle, is attached by a chain. This heater has a cool handle and a damper top.

The Perfection Oil Heater has an automatic-locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being burnt high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back, so the wick can be quickly cleaned. The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged and can be unscrewed in an instant for reworking. The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in Japan or nickel, is strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.
